Newspaper (The Dial) Account of the food poisoning

DISASTROUS DINNER

A Father and Mother Eat a Hearty Dinner, are Taken Sick and Die Soon Thereafter.

Last Thursday Mr. John Ricks invited his parents, Isaac and Jane Ricks, aged 91 and 65 years, to his home to partake dinner with his family. The father suggested that John buy a boiling piece of beef so that they could have soup. The meat was purchased and on arriving at the house the old gentleman Ricks said "Well I never expected to live to come here again." He said he was feeling in good spirits, was not tired, and even refused to lie down on the lounge. The dinner was prepared by Mrs. John Ricks and consisted of the beef boiled with potatoes and strips of dough put in to make dumplings--a favorite dish of the aged people. This, with bread and butter, pie-plant pie and tea constituted the meal. Soon after dinner the elder Mrs. Ricks complained of a severe pain in the region of the stomach and Isaac Ricks was, about the same time, taken with terrible cramping, accompanied with vomiting and purging.

John Ricks had gone up street where he was taken sick and asked Frank Kelley to water his horses, as he was not able to do so. He returned home, saw the condition of his father and mother, but was too sick to render them assistance. Dr. Armstrong was called and every effort made to relieve the sufferers, but without avail so far as the two elder Ricks' were concerned. They suffered greatly until death relieved them, Isaac Ricks dying during Thursday evening and his wife on Friday evening. Mrs. John Ricks was the next one to come down with the fatal illness that had attacked her husband's parents. She was removed to the residence of her father, Mr. B. Fear., where she now is, although herself and husband are out of danger.

As a matter of course, all kinds of rumors spread far and fast. The knowing ones pronouncing it a clear case of poisoning, that either the meat or the tea used at the dinner was the cause. In all probability, it was both.

The old people had before them a favorite dish and eat heartily of the meat and dumplings,- a not over healthy dish for one of strong constitution, especially when taken immoderately. Competent cooks tell us that the dough, boiled or steamed, is very apt to have enclosed within the crust an amount of steam generated from the dough that is very unhealthy, and that unless the dough is frequently punctured while cooking, the gases thus arising remain in the mixture, and, often produce gastralgia pain in the stomach or abdomen. It is probable that this was the case with the dumplings at the Ricks family dinner table on Thursday last.

The elder persons ate largely of the meat and dumplings while the children of John Ricks who ate at the same table, confined themselves to the soup or broth. This latter fact would dispel all doubts about poisonous meat at the table, as it is well known that had the meat been poisonous that poison would have impregnated the broth, as the broth is known to contain all the strength of the meat. Then, too, the physician in attendance, pronounced the symptoms gastritis- or common American parlance, Cholera Morbus.

This explanation of the cause of death we give in order to quiet the gossiping tongues that have become so busy in the affair. Also, in justice to Mr. A. W. Robinson, from whom the meat was purchased, as there are many who endeavor to lay blame at his door.

The death of Mr. Isaac Ricks carries away, perhaps, the only surviving soldier who took part in the memorable Battle of Waterloo, under Wellington. He was 28 years of age at the time of the battle and his personal account of that great fight is yet fresh in the minds of many readers of the Dial. He was born in England in the year 1788 and emigrated to America in 1836. He settled in Boscobel in 1852 and has always been respected and honored and loved by all who knew him. He was the father of fourteen children, ten of whom survive his sad demise. Mrs. Jane Ricks was his second wife whom he married before leaving England.
